Homily

3rd Sunday of Easter

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,
Peace be with you.
"Being an adult" and "being an old-fashioned authoritarian" may sound similar in terms of age, but they are quite different in attitude and mindset. Simply put, an adult is someone we want to respect, while an authoritarian is someone we want to avoid. A true adult listens to younger people and tries to understand them. They share their experiences without forcing them onto others and offer advice only when it's needed. They don't insist that the past ways are the absolute standard, but rather acknowledge that times have changed and are willing to learn. They treat others with dignity, regardless of age or status. On the other hand, authoritarians believe that only their words are correct. Instead of conversing, they lecture. They often repeat phrases like, "I've done it before, so I know," and reject generational differences and change. They demand obedience based on age or position. My personal definition of a true adult is this: "Someone who speaks little but opens their wallet often." I'm now over sixty, and I too hope to be seen as an adult, not an authoritarian, by my younger brother priests.

In today's Gospel, the Risen Lord Jesus asks Peter three times, "Simon, son of John, do you love me?" When Peter answers, "Yes, Lord, you know that I love you," Jesus replies three times: "Feed my sheep." Every time I hear these words, my heart burns within me. Jesus sees love not merely as an emotion but as a responsibility. "If you love someone, care for them." This is the message the Risen Lord gives us today.

Why did Jesus ask three times? Because Peter had denied Him three times. The Lord redeems Peter's failure by asking three corresponding questions and entrusting him with a mission of love. By the Sea of Galilee in Israel, there is a small chapel called Mensa Christi – "the Table of Christ." Pilgrims often place their hands on the rock inside this chapel and pray. It is believed that it was on this very rock that Jesus asked Peter, "Do you love me?" When I prayed there, I felt those same words deeply stir my heart "Fr. Gabriel, do you love me? Feed my sheep."

Today, I want to share two real-life stories of people who truly lived this message. The first is Mr. Kim Jang-ha from Daegu. He ran a small traditional medicine shop all his life and earned money, but used almost none of it for himself. Instead, he established scholarship and welfare foundations, donating billions of won to help poor students and neighbors. He lived modestly in a small room, yet gave generously to those in need. He once said, "People are happiest when living for others. If you live only for yourself, you end up lonely and miserable." One of the scholarship recipients was a young man named Moon Hyung-bae, who later became a Constitutional Court Justice. Coming from a difficult background, he was able to continue his studies thanks to Mr. Kim's help. After achieving success, he visited Mr. Kim and said, "It's because of you that I came this far. Thank you so much." Mr. Kim responded, "What I gave you wasn't mine. I simply passed on what I received from society. Now you must give back what you've received." Justice Moon took those words to heart and became a judge committed to justice and fairness. On April 4 this year, he played a key role in the Constitutional Court's decision on the presidential impeachment, delivering a balanced and unwavering judgment.

These two men didn't just speak of love—they proved it through their lives. The command of Jesus to Peter—"Feed my sheep"—is also being given to each of us today. True Easter faith begins not with words of love, but with caring for someone near us. Not just taking care of our own children, families, and work, but widening our gaze to embrace the sheep the Lord has entrusted to us—the weak, the lonely, and the ones in need. Love means responsibility. True love begins with care. This week, I invite you to say to the Lord, "Yes, Lord, you know that I love you," and begin walking the path of tending His sheep. That is how we live as true witnesses of the Resurrection. "Simon, son of John, do you love me more than these? Feed my lambs. Follow me."
