Homily

Solemnity of Saints Peter and Paul, Apostles (Papal Sunday)

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,
Peace be with you.
Today we celebrate the Solemnity of Saints Peter and Paul, the two pillars upon whom the foundations of the Church were laid. It is also Papal Sunday, a day on which we pray especially for our Holy Father, the Pope, the successor of Saint Peter. As we commemorate these two great apostles, we are invited to return to the roots of our faith. Saint Peter was the model of a faith confession. He declared before Jesus, "You are the Christ, the Son of the living God." To this, Jesus responded, "You are Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of the netherworld shall not prevail against it." The Church was built upon this confession, and it has stood firm through the centuries. Saint Paul, on the other hand, was the apostle who testified to the meaning and content of that confession—through his writings, his life, and ultimately his martyrdom. As he said, "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith." Paul lived his entire life as a burning flame for the Gospel. Though different in personality and mission, Peter and Paul needed one another. Through their unity, the Church found its fullness.

I remember entering seminary in 1982. Among my classmates were two friends named Peter and Paul. Their lives reminded me of the saints whose names they bore. Fr. Peter volunteered for the challenging role of military chaplain, even after having already completed his own military service. Afterward, he chose to serve in urban missions among the poor—in places like Geumho-dong, Samyang-dong, Bongcheon-dong, and Jangwi-dong. While other classmates served in parishes, he went to the margins, believing that was where Christ was truly present. Two years ago, he visited me in New York. He was still like Saint Peter, saying, "Lord, you know that I love you."

Fr. Paul had a passion for learning. He was the first among us to use a computer, and he even helped format my thesis. For health reasons, he never drank or smoked. He studied in Rome and New York, served as secretary of the seminary formation committee, and helped draft guidelines for seminarian formation in the Korean Catholic Church. During the difficult time of the COVID-19 pandemic, while I was at the Catholic Peace Weekly in New York, he wrote a series on the historical development of Catholic spirituality. He is now rector of a seminary, devoted to forming future priests. His life reminds me of Saint Paul, who said, "From now on, the crown of righteousness awaits me, which the Lord, the just judge, will award to me on that day... The Lord will rescue me from every evil threat and bring me safe to His heavenly kingdom."

When I served in parishes, parishioners would often say, "Father, you're so kind—what if the next priest isn't like you?" Indeed, I do have a gentle nature. It has helped in pastoral ministry and was appreciated by many elderly parishioners. But like Peter, I have zeal, yet often lack drive. Like Paul, I strive to follow the Lord, but sometimes in a Pharisaic way. Yet before God, there is no such thing as being too fast or too slow. A thousand years are like a day gone by in His sight. Before God, perfection, intelligence, and talent are not what matter. God can build everything even from a stone by the roadside. What matters most are the tears of repentance that Peter shed. What matters most is Paul's conversion to a new life. These are the foundations upon which faith is renewed.

Today is also Papal Sunday. We pray for our Pope, the successor of Saint Peter. In this divided world, the Holy Father is a source of unity and a witness of faith. Pope Francis, through his solidarity with the poor, concern for the environment, and efforts for peace, embodies the mission of Peter and Paul in our own time. Let us also pray for Pope Leo XIV, that he may shepherd the Church as a good pastor, guided by the Holy Spirit. May we, like Saint Peter, boldly confess, "You are the Christ, the Son of the living God." And may we, like Saint Paul, live out that confession with our lives running the race of faith to the very end. "Taste and see how good the Lord is blessed are those who take refuge in Him."

Pastor Je Hyoung Cho
