Homily

14th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Hello, parishioners!
The most important purpose for missionary diocesan priest gatherings is the fellowship of the priests. In Korea, we do not have frequent opportunities to meet, but here in the U.S. and Mexico, we get together more often because we need support from dioceses and each other. During these gatherings, a hymn we frequently sang in the seminary came to mind: "How good and pleasant it is when brothers live together in unity. One thing I ask of the Lord, this is what I seek: that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life."

A priest from Alaska said he had to change planes three times to get to the meeting place. A priest from Colombia invited us to visit their mission center anytime. A priest from Chicago thanked the priests working in Washington and Dallas for support in fundraising. A priest from Mexico shared his struggles with gallstones. Student priests, despite the difficulties of learning a new language, laughed and said they are managing well now. A priest nearing the end of his term said he feels like a soldier waiting for discharge. I shared my story of working at a newspaper in New York and then moving to a Korean community in Dallas. The youngest priest and I have a 31-year age difference, but age is just a number. The four days passed quickly, and we hope to meet again next year to alleviate the sadness of parting.

Another important aspect of the diocesan priest meetings is the interview with the bishop. I lived five years with the bishop at the Myeong-dong Cathedral. The bishop has changed from the position of auxiliary bishop to the Archbishop of Seoul. What hasn't changed is his humility and attentiveness to the priests' stories. During our interview, the bishop was surprised to see me because I used to dye my hair black in Myeongdong. In the U.S., I stopped dyeing it, and now my hair is white. Although initially surprised, the bishop complimented my silver-white hair. The only thing that has changed about me is my hair color. What hasn't changed is that I am still a priest of the Seoul Archdiocese, and my determination to return to parish ministry when I go back to Korea. After our interview, the bishop shared updates on the diocese, including plans for World Youth Day in three years. He expressed hope that the event would not be just a one-time occurrence but a transformative event for the church. He also mentioned plans to appoint cooperating priests, mass assistant priests, parish priests, and prayer-dedicated priests, so that priests who have been assistants for nearly 20 years can become parish priests within 10 years.

In today's reading, St. Paul talks about his transformed life. He was once a Pharisee who strictly observed the law and commandments. He persecuted those who followed Jesus and judged those who failed to keep the law as sinners. He boasted about being a Roman citizen and studying the law under Gamaliel. However, after experiencing Jesus, many things changed. He realized that salvation comes not from strictly observing the law and commandments but from faith in the Lord and conviction in the Gospel. He expressed joy in boasting about his weaknesses so that Christ's power may rest on him. He accepted weaknesses, insults, hardships, persecutions, and difficulties for Christ's sake, saying that when he is weak, then he is strong. The apostles accepted the transformed Paul into their community. The persecutor of the church became the apostle to the Gentiles, laying the theological and doctrinal foundation of the early church.

In today's Gospel, the people of Jesus' hometown could not see His true nature because they only looked at His outward appearance, blinded by prejudice and preconceptions. We must wear the lenses of faith, hope, and love. When we view the world through these lenses, we see its beauty and feel God's mercy and grace.
