Homily

19th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ, Peace be with you.
I recently traveled to New York with the priest from Fort Worth. We had dinner with some of the New York priests. It was the first time the Fort Worth priest had met them, but I had spent five years working with them in New York. During my time there, I built many memories and bonds with these fellow priests. It wasn't just because I enjoy being around people, but mainly because we lived through the three years of the COVID-19 pandemic together. As the saying goes, "Those who have eaten bread soaked in tears together grow close." Our shared suffering brought us closer. Because I couldn't go out to promote the newspaper, I had free time. And since the churches had to close their doors, so did many of the other priests. To escape the monotony of staying at home, we went camping and even bought camping gear together. A priest who enjoyed cycling introduced me to it, and we would go on rides together. During those three years, we also went on pilgrimages and trips as a group. Although we tried to include the Fort Worth priest in our conversations, the topic naturally shifted back to our memories and shared experiences. This made me realize something: in the end, we humans live on memories and shared moments. The life of faith is the same. The Bible is a record of the memories between God and the people of Israel. The Gospels are the memories of Jesus and His disciples. Church doctrine, traditions, sacraments, and liturgy—all of these are ways to share and carry forward those sacred memories.

In today's Second Reading, Saint Paul reminds us of a fundamental memory of faith: "By faith, Abraham obeyed when he was called. When put to the test, he offered up Isaac." That faith was not just a mental assent, but a lived memory of obedience to God's will. Now in Dallas, I am building new memories of faith. From February to July of last year, we worked on the storage room project. Every Saturday, a group of brothers and I sweated together on the construction site. It was exhausting and hot, but through that experience, I met brothers who were like hidden treasures. Jesus said, "The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field." Like the man who found the treasure, I have found precious relationships here in our parish. Those same brothers now serve as pastoral council members, devoting themselves to the community. There was also a walking event for world peace. One brother proposed the event to pray for the end of wars in Ukraine and Russia, in Gaza and Israel. As someone who enjoys walking, I suggested one of my favorite park trails. The walk was held on the last Saturday of November, and over 300 people participated. Volunteers handed out Scripture cards and stamped participants' cards at the halfway point. Just as clothes get wet in a light drizzle, our faith deepens through small acts of practice—these then become part of our memory and remain within us.

What is the Church's most fundamental memory? I believe it is the Last Supper that Jesus shared with His disciples on Holy Thursday night. That memory became the Eucharist, and today it continues in the Mass we celebrate. Jesus said: "Take this, all of you, and eat of it, for this is my Body, which will be given up for you. Take this, all of you, and drink from it, for this is the chalice of my Blood, the Blood of the new and eternal covenant.Do this in memory of me." And the Church responds: "The mystery of faith! We proclaim your death, O Lord, and profess your Resurrection until you come again." In today's Gospel, Jesus says: "Blessed are those servants whom the master finds awake when he comes!" Who is truly awake? It is the one who keeps the Lord's commandments, The one who obeys God's call like Abraham, The one who practices mercy like the Good Samaritan, And the one who stores up treasure in heaven. As Jesus says, "For where your treasure is, there also will your heart be." When we remember the graces we've received from God and share them with our neighbors, our hearts are lifted toward heaven. May God grant us faith like Abraham's, so that even while living as pilgrims on this earth, we may live as faithful people who remain ever watchful and ready for the Lord.
