Homily

Homily for the 26th Sunday in Ordinary Time (World Day of Migrants and Refugees)

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ, peace be with you.
I recall my days of study in Canada in 2006. At that time, I was studying Ignatian Spiritual Exercises, and the dean of students at the seminary suggested that I also study homiletics. His hope was that, one day, when I returned to Korea, I could teach seminarians how to preach. So, I began to study homiletics as well. One teaching method that left a deep impression on me was when the professor divided us into groups and asked us to find good homilies or sermons, watch them together, and evaluate them. Later, when I myself taught seminarians, I used the same method. The students found many powerful examples online: teachings of Ven. Beopjeong, sermons by Pastor Ok Han-hum, and even those of Pastor David Yonggi Cho.

Among them, the one that moved me most deeply was Pope Francis' homily in Lampedusa. In 2013, shortly after his election, the Holy Father made his first pastoral visit to the small Mediterranean island of Lampedusa, where many refugees fleeing war and poverty were being held. There he spoke with urgency: "We live in a globalized world, but we have fallen into the globalization of indifference. We see suffering neighbors, but say, 'That's not my concern.' We live as anonymous people without names, without faces, without responsibility. Adam, where are you? Cain, where is your brother? And today I add a third question: Who is weeping for these people?"
The Pope's words were not about sentimental tears, but a cry that questioned where we stand as believers.

The people of Israel, too, were not great from the beginning. They were slaves in Egypt, living with tears. God heard their cry and liberated them. That is why God constantly reminds them: "Were you not once strangers in the land of Egypt?" They were to never forget their experience of slavery and exile. A liberated people must in turn care for the widow, the orphan, and the stranger. God's Kingdom is not the realm of the powerful but a world where the weak are respected. Even Jesus Himself was born in Bethlehem and fled as a refugee into Egypt. He lived the life of an exile, and on the Cross, He stood in the place of the utterly abandoned. For this reason, the Church must always take the side of refugees and the poor.

Today's Gospel about the rich man and Lazarus reminds us again. The rich man feasted every day, yet paid no attention to Lazarus, who lay starving at his door. In the end, he suffered torment in the afterlife and begged Abraham for relief. But Abraham answered firmly: "If they do not listen to Moses and the prophets, they will not be convinced even if someone rises from the dead." Faith is ultimately tested in how we respond to the visible suffering before us. A person who lives in indifference will not recognize even the miracle of resurrection.

Today we mark the World Day of Migrants and Refugees. The Korean Church also shares in the mission of the Holy See by caring pastorally for migrant workers and immigrants. All of us have lived as immigrants in one way or another. We know what it is like to arrive in a foreign land and survive through the help of others. Because of that memory, we can now extend welcome and hospitality to new immigrants and refugees. The rich man ignored Lazarus, but God remembered Lazarus by name. God calls the poor by name, while the greedy are forgotten. May we remember this divine gaze, so that our community becomes one of hospitality and solidarity.
"Were you not once strangers in the land of Egypt?" This is not merely a reminder of the past but God's living voice asking us how we are called to live today. Let us inscribe this word in our hearts, so that we may one day rejoice together in God's Kingdom as true believers.
